

BRADLEY PUBLIC LIBRARY DISTRICT
PUBLIC USE OF THE LIBRARY POLICY

SECTION 8: COMPUTERS AND INTERNET
PART 3: Wireless Access

The Bradley Public Library District provides a filtered/unsecured wireless access network for users with wireless electronic devices. This service is not to be used as a permanent connection. Signal strength may vary in the building and extend outside the building. No guarantee is made for signal strength or availability.

By choosing to use this free wireless access, users agree to abide by this policy that prohibits abusive or illegal activity while using this access. All relevant Library rules, regulations and policies apply, including but not limited to, the Internet Use Policy. The Library reserves the right to terminate a wireless Internet session at any time.

Most wireless electronic devices will be compatible with the library's access points. However, the library cannot guarantee that your hardware will work with the library's wireless access network. If a user experiences problems connecting to a wireless access point, staff will verify that the library's wireless access network is operational, but staff are not trained to configure or troubleshoot wireless electronic devices. Please refer to your owner's manual or other support services offered by your device manufacturer.

The Library's wireless access network provides no security between the access points and your electronic device; therefore, someone in the library vicinity, inside or outside, can potentially capture information sent to or from your device. The Library cautions wireless users against transmitting credit card information, passwords and any other sensitive personal information while using any wireless access point. Anti-virus and security protection are the responsibility of the user.

Use of the Bradley Public Library District wireless access network is entirely at the risk of the user. The Library assumes no responsibility for the safety of equipment or device configurations, security, or data files resulting from connection to the library's wireless access network or the Internet, or liability for any consequent damage to hardware, software or data.

Black and white printing is available over the wireless access network. Users may also transfer files to a USB flash drive, or e-mail it to themselves via a web-based e-mail service, and then open the file and print it from one of the Library's Internet accessible computers (sign-in required).
